the very pleasing programme presented at the Grand theater last evening by Heid's band, assisted by the Euterpe Laales' quartette. Some of the selections by the band were especially good, the number from "Il Travatore" with the anvil chorus being one of the best things they have attempted since the popular concerts began—that is while not new in the band's repertoire, it was given with especially good effect. The duet for cornets by Messrs. Leslie and Johnson, accompanied by the band, was another favorite of the evening and was enthusiastically encored. Another old-time favorite which caught the popular fancy was the "Flower Song" by Lange. Mr. Held's cornet solo, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," was well rendered, and as an encore he gave the beautiful "Message of the Violet."

The Euterpa Ladies' quartette made a most favorable impression, and in place of the two numbers on the programme gave four, two in response to encores. "Minne-haha" was the first number, but this was not so well done as the fine old "Loch Lomond," which was sing in a really artistic way. Mozart's "Lullaby" was another number given by the quartette, and in response to an encore for this they sang "The Tack."

Mrs. Mathews and Mrs. Kennedy, who have the distinction of being the only women thus far called to Washington to testify in the Smoot case, are refined-appearing gentlewomen, about 47 and 17 years old, respectively. The mother has a prominent English accent, she having been born and raised across the water. She came to this country nearly thirty years ago as a convert to the missionary labors of Elder George Barber, and shortly after her arrival in Utah became the second will of Rarber. Mrs. Kennedy having been born to their union. Barber died thirteen years ago, and three years later Mrs. Barber was married to Charles Mathews of Marysvale. Although Mathews of Marysvale. Although Mathews was a Mormon at the time, this marriage was not a polygamous one, and seven years ago Mathews became an apostotic to the falth, while Mrs. Mathews is still a Mormon.

The testimony of Mrs. Mathews and Mrs. Kennedy was desired in Washington on account of the latite having been married in polygamy since the issuance of the manifesto in 1296. She was wedded in May, 1896, to f. F. Johnson of Mess, Arlz, who at the time had another wife, the coremony having been performed at Jauris, Mexico, by Apostle Brigham Young At the end of five years she separated from Johnson, on account of alleged cruelty, and about a year later

"I certainly do. I believe however, that so long as it is prohibited by the laws of the land it should not be practiced. We should live up to the promise which was made when we were given Statehood." "But," she added, with a degree of meonsistency which should probably be excused in a woman. "I think it was rather nice of President Smith to refuse to desert the wives to whom he was married before the law went into effect.

Mrs. Mathews further explained that at the time of her daughter's polygamon marriage she had no idea that the law would apply to a marriage performed in Mexico.

"I don't believe in polygamy at all," said Mrs. Kennedy. "I don't believe that anything could be divine from which nothing but unhappiness results. I haven't a single pleasant recollection of my polygamous marriage," she added, with a faraway look in her eyes. "I have tried to forget that potton of my life as far as possible. Of course, at my own home it was different, but we were an exceptional family."

"We were a very happy family," echoed the mother.

"Do you know A. G. Barber, Senator from the Cache district?" then asked Mrs. Mathews. "He is my first busband's son, "she said preadly."

"Not your son."

ROOMING-HOUSE ROW RESULTS IN ARRESTS

One little rooming-house row on South Temple street at an early hour yesterday morning resulted in five persons being thrown into jail before Officer Brown thought he had done justice to the affair, with its complications. The officer was passing the place when he heard a violent altercation between a mar and a woman on the second floor. He stopped to isten a moment when a beer mug, which had been thrown at the man by the woman, whizzed through the window and almost tipped the efficer's ear. At this Brown went in and arrested the belligerents, who gave the names of A. L. Brown and Mabel

A novel plan for advertising a city has cen adopted by Anderson, one of the most progressive of Indiana's natural gas cities. It gives a suggestion to Sait Lake tion of four or five thousand inhabitants. It had nothing to offer but natural gas. It was surrounded by large cities great manufactoring marts. It had no markets of its own-far different from Salt Lake City, with an uncompeted field of nearly five hundred ralles in every direction.

But Anderson has grown to a manufacturing point of about 20,000 inhabitants, and it cointaines to grow, and provides 50,000 inhabitants within two years.

The people there all stand together, There is no factional division when it comes to attracting and holding manufacturing concerns and population. The nunleipality affords plenty of water, reasonable taxes, and equality to all coners.

Pacently a botton was designed, with the stogan: "You push the button, and Anderson's merchants will do the rest."

Four thousand inhabitants, wherever they go, wear these buttons. And they taik Anderson. It is the greatest place on earth, if one would listen to their song. It is Anderson, and nothing but Anderson. The button, curious in design, attracts the attention of all who see it. Then follow questions, inquiries; and then residence in Anderson.

They cost but a few cents. The profits go o the advertising fund for the city.

George Wilson and Frank Hansen, is planning extensive operations and will begin work in a short time. Its programme includes drawing up incorporating papers in a short time. Its big quartz ledge, which runs the length of the grounds and shows encouraging assays in gold and sliver. Is a source of great hope to the owners.

The "Hot Air" is likely to be the name of a great stretch of country located disining the rush by Messrs. Robert Waddill. Charles Marr and James Quinn, lying to the north and east of the Majestic.

John M. Buttery and John Murphy are reported back on their group, the Lucky Boy, situated north of the Majestic, and are said to be doing a great amount of development work.

On the Emerald group Messrs. Fahey and Allen are driving a tunnel to the ledge, and a disclosure of ore was reported several days ago on the ground.

There can be but little doubt but that the Elkhorn will become one of the principal centers of mining activity for Park City the coming year, and from what is already occurring in the district it is confidently predicted that it is destined to develop into a famous mining region. BOILERS GAVE OUT. BOILERS GAVE OUT.

A set of boilers at the Silver King hoisting works gave out hast night at it o'clock, and as a result the mine, with its great complement of employees, is idle today. Stokers have been placed recently in connection with the furnaces, and the resultant concentration of heat on certain portions of the boilers has proved too much for them. A lenkage developed, which warned those in charge to use the remaining power to hoist the men from the mine without delay. The power was so nearly without delay. The power was so nearly exhausted before all the men were brought exhausted before all the men were brought up that the last cages full were holsted very slowly.

The work of patching up the damaged boilers is going on today, and it is thought that the mine will be in operation again tomorrow afternoon. There is enough ore in the bins to keep the mill busy two days, so that the shutdown of the mill is unlikely.

A SMALL FIRE.

A fire broke out at the station on the 1300-foot level of the Silver King last evening, which resulted in the destruction of timbers. No one was present at the time, but the fire is thought to have started from an exploding lamp. The fire was discovered by the station tender, who was being lowered to the station. He gave the signal and the motion of the cage was reversed. Men were immediately sent through the raises to the scene of the fire, and as soon as the snoke was drawn in the direction of the shaft by an upward and downward motion of the cage, a bucket brigade succeeded in extinguishing the flames. No further damage was done than to the timber in the vicinity of where it had been the custom to leave the lamp.
